

Fruitcake, Poetry and Herpes

The three most dreaded words in the English language

Shortly after Christmas last year I received a fourth hand fruitcake with 3 slices missing. It was given to me by a person who had eaten a slice and didn't like it. They had received it with only 2 slices missing. It was given to them by someone who had received it as a second hand fruitcake with only 1 slice missing. They tried it, didn't like it and decided to re-gift it.

I ate the remainder of my fourth hand fruitcake - I like fruitcake - but then again I like poetry.

I tried to send my very patriotic poem, "Owed to the Life of the Soldier" to the VFW national website. I thought if anyone could enjoy (and maybe publish) a patriotic poem it would be the VFW. But when I got to their website it said in large letters "WE DO NOT ACCEPT POETRY"

Curt Vevang